

In his Sanctuary of Arts, where he leads individual and group “Awakening Creativity” sessions in a lush waterfall sculpture garden by the edge of the sea, the following mission statement says it all: “TO ALL WHO ENTER HERE:

Welcome to this creative sanctuary! The space you are in right now is dedicated to the coming together of all peoples, from all cultures and walks of life, from all religious traditions and spiritual preferences, from all professions and ways of being in the world.

Here in this room, through celebrating all manner of the visual, performing and healing arts, it is intended that people of all ages and stages meet as one – and communicate in the spirit of communion.

Through painting with colours, moving your body as you feel moved, speaking your truth, singing and making music and merriment, here is a place for you to express the JOY of Being fully, exquisitely Alive.

Without any effort at all, you may find yourself letting go of outmoded beliefs and differences which no longer serve you, whilst transforming conflicts into harmony and discovering fresh inspiration in this special soothing space by the sea.

As you hear the waterfall dancing to the earth in its own spirit of play, may you awaken here new ways of being within yourself and share this refreshment with others.

ENJOY!

Dancing and Celebrating with you, Gary “Elijah” Wohlman”
